2022 Social Media Industry Benchmark Report

Industry benchmarks across the most important social media metrics
Introduction

We’re back with a supercharged version of our annual Social Media Industry Benchmark Report. We surveyed thousands of the most engaging brands and companies on social to analyze what’s really making them so successful.

The Benchmarks:
Our biggest report ever features the most important metrics from 2021 across 14 top industries:

- Alcohol
- Fashion
- Financial Services
- Food & Beverage
- Health & Beauty
- Higher Education
- Home Decor
- Hotels & Resorts
- Influencers
- Media
- Nonprofits
- Retail
- Sports Teams
- Tech & Software
- Influencers
- Media
- Nonprofits
- Retail
- Sports Teams
- Tech & Software

This report has everything you need to measure your social media success against your competitors on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram across these 14 major industries. We also feature tons of insights about how social media engagement has changed over the last year for these industries so you can optimize your strategy in 2022. As usual, we have channel observations, best post types, Instagram and Twitter hashtags, and more.

Now let’s get benchmarking.
Key takeaways

Brands seeing less organic engagement this year.
Declining engagement rates on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter reflect that social media is increasingly becoming a pay-to-play space.

Posting frequency on the rise.
Brands have increased their posting frequency on all three channels to increase bites at the engagement apple.

Contest and holidays topped the hashtag charts.
Nearly every industry found success with giveaways and hashtag holidays ranging from #Halloween to #MayThe4thBeWithYou.

Every brand should post carousels on Instagram.
What’s the secret behind this ultra-engaging post type? Instagram carousels often get re-served to users who don’t engage the first time, earning them more impressions.

Keep an eye on video.
Brands are already struggling to keep up with enough video to compete with the popularity of TikTok and YouTube.
To spot trends and identify benchmarks, we used Rival IQ to analyze engagement rates, posting frequency, post types, and hashtags on the top three social channels for brands: Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter.

We define engagement as measurable interaction on organic and boosted social media posts, including likes, comments, favorites, retweets, shares, and reactions. Engagement rate is calculated based on all these interactions divided by total follower count.

Within this report, we provide a representative sample of national and international companies in each industry by selecting 150 companies at random from each industry in our database of over 200,000 companies. Companies selected had active presences on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter as of January 2021, and had Facebook fan counts between 25,000 and 1,000,000 and minimum Instagram and Twitter followers of 5,000 as of the same date.

We used median performance from the companies selected for each industry to compile the data for this report.

The Benchmarks
Why do we benchmark?

Social media success is about so much more than getting the most comments or likes: it’s about increasing engagement while also growing or maintaining the percentage of your audience that engages as you expand your audience.

To us, engagement rate per post is the metric because it controls for post volume and audience size and helps marketers understand how they’re doing in relation to their competitors.

Why can’t you gauge success on likes alone? Because audience size is hugely important: 1,000 likes makes a huge difference to a brand with 2,000 followers, but is a drop in the bucket to a brand with 100,000 followers.

With that core metric in mind, we include a detailed look at each industry’s engagement rate alongside posting frequency, post media types, hashtags, and more for a true sense of social performance.

In addition to our social media industry breakdowns, we also compare all the industries together so you can see how things shake out across the board.

Quick note: the truest measure of your social content’s resonance would be engagement divided by unique reach (the count of unique people who saw your content) or impressions (the number of times your content was displayed). Unfortunately, due to the Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter API restrictions, we aren’t able to include this particular stat.
Ready to compare your social media performance live? Check out our Explore landscapes, where we feature live social media metrics from a sample of companies from each industry represented in this study. These landscapes feature hashtag performance, top post types, and so much more on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter.

Or, run a free Head-to-Head report against your biggest rival to see how you measure up to both your competition and against industry benchmarks represented in this study.

(Oh, and if you're a Rival IQ customer or in a trial, you can add those stats directly into your Rival IQ account for even more comparisons.)
The all-industry Facebook median declined a little this year, though Higher Ed and Sports Teams were able to boost their engagement rates.
Facebook activity

Posts per week

The median across all industries is 5.87 posts per week.

Median posting frequency on Facebook ticked up by a few points this year.
Influencers (infrequent posters) and Sports Teams (frequent posters) earn consistently high marks on Facebook despite a big delta in posting frequency.
Engagement rate per post (by follower)

The median across all industries is 0.67%

Instagram engagement rates fell by about 30% this year, which is sobering news for any social media professional. The good news? Instagram engagement rates are still way higher than Facebook or Twitter.
The median posting frequency across all industries increased about 25% this year on Instagram.
Higher Ed was the clear engagement winner on Instagram despite below-median posting frequency, suggesting more isn’t always better on Instagram (though second-place Sports Teams might beg to differ).
Health & Beauty, Influencers, Nonprofits, and Sports Teams were able to increase their Twitter engagement rates.
Tweets per week

The median across all industries is 5.04 tweets per week

Tweeters frequency rose about 13% this year, and Media and Sports Teams tweeted more than all the rest of the industries combined on Twitter (as usual).
Frequent tweeters Higher Ed and Sports Teams came out ahead on Twitter this year, but last-place Media showed other industries that higher tweet frequency isn’t always better.

ALCOHOL

Overview

Cheers to Alcohol brands on Twitter

Alcohol brands won the bronze on Twitter again and performed above the median on Facebook and Instagram.

A few ways Alcohol brands can keep up the pace:

• Photos outperformed videos on every channel, and were especially successful on Twitter.
• Holiday hashtags topped the charts for Alcohol brands this year, so be sure to lean into the festivities in 2022.

Alcohol was the third-most engaging industry on Twitter by rate but put the least posting energy to that channel. Beer, wine, and liquor brands might want to focus more time there.
Alcohol brands were much likelier to post a photo on Facebook than any other post type, which is handy, since photo posts outperformed all other post types by a long shot.
Carousels grabbed the highest engagement rates for Alcohol brands, who were much likelier to post photos on Instagram. Consider combining a few of those single-photo posts into high-performing carousels.

Overview

Fashion Lagging Across All Three Channels

Fashion brands struggled to keep engagement rates up on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter despite regular posting.

Some suggestions for Fashion brands:

- Carousels are key to any brand's Insta success: they outperform photos and videos because Instagram often re-serves them to folks who didn't engage with the post the first time around.
- #ValentinesDay and #competition hashtags were top performers, so be sure to measure performance and replicate what works.

A few examples from Fashion brands

SEE WHERE YOU RANK WITH A FREE TRIAL OF RIVAL IQ
Fashion brands saw low engagement rates on both Facebook and Twitter, but were more than twice as likely to post on Facebook.
Photos were twice as engaging as the next best post type for Fashion brands on Facebook.
Photos and carousels garner near-identical engagement rates for Fashion brands, who are twice as likely to post a photo on Instagram. Try combining photos into carousels by theme to supercharge engagement rates.
Fashion brands used #competition to grab nearly twice the engagement rates of the next most engaging hashtag. Giveaways and wins rounded out the winner’s podium for these brands.
Many Fashion brands emphasized photo tweets on Twitter this year, but could up their engagement rates by focusing more on video.

Financial Services
Twitter is a gold mine for #FinServ brands

Financial Services brands saw above-median engagement rates on Twitter and was middle of the pack on Facebook.

A few ideas for Financial Services brands:
- More high-engagement videos could help Financial Services brands pull ahead of the pack.
- Diversity, holiday, and finance-themed hashtags dominated on Instagram and Twitter this year.

Financial Services sees engagement rates slightly above the median on Twitter, which helps explain the reason the industry has a high tweet per week count.
Photo and video posts are top performers on Facebook for Financial Services brands, so it's good that #FinServ brands are making the most of these post types.
Photo and carousel posts performed almost equally well for Financial Services brands, who were much likely to post photos.
We love seeing #Pride and #PrideMonth as trending hashtags for Financial Services brands on Instagram.
Financial Services brands saw great returns from tweeting photos, but might want to try more videos on Twitter to boost engagement rates further.
#BlackFriday trended hard for Financial Services brands on Twitter this year alongside other holiday-themed hashtags like #ValentinesDay and #MothersDay.

Overview

Food & Beverage Eating Twitter for Lunch

Food & Beverage brands posted below the median frequency on every channel, but managed to beat out many other industries on Twitter.

Some ideas for improvement:

- Contests and giveaways are the hashtag secret sauce for Food & Beverage brands.
- Photos outperformed video on every channel for Food & Beverage brands, so don’t be afraid to invest more in static visuals.

Overview

Higher Ed Named Instagram Valedictorian

Higher Ed rocked it with killer engagement rates on Instagram and got on the podium for Facebook and Twitter too thanks to hyper-engaged fans.

For even higher Higher Ed engagement rates:

- Followers love a chance to chime in, so keep asking what they’re up to on social media holidays like #NationalDogDay.
- Try to post more of what works for you: more carousels on Instagram, and more statuses and videos on Twitter.

HOTELS & RESORTS

Overview

Hotels & Resorts Holding Steady

Hotels & Resorts saw twice the median engagement on Facebook this year and hovered right around the median on Instagram and Twitter, which is impressive.

A few suggestions to grow engagement:

• Pay attention to the success of giveaways on Instagram, and consider replicating this strategy on other channels.
• Posting frequency was below-median across the board, so experiment with an uptick here to see if you can increase your current engagement rates.

INFLUENCERS

Overview

Influencers Dominating on Facebook

Influencers earned 3x the median engagement rate on Facebook for a silver medal, and also killed it on Instagram. Influencers posted right around the median frequency on all three channels, suggesting they’ve dialed in how often to post on social.

Ideas to boost that engagement even more:

• Photos continue to be a great place to focus efforts on Facebook.
• The top-performing hashtag on Instagram and Twitter was #tbt, so don’t be afraid to lean into nostalgia on those channels.

Just like on Instagram, #tbt was the top-performing hashtag by a mile, suggesting followers relish the chance to get to know content creators.
Media Brands All About the Post Frequency

Media increased its posting frequency on Facebook and Twitter dramatically but were largely able to hold onto the same engagement rates as last year as the uncertainty of 2021 sent people hunting for news and updates.

A few ideas to improve engagement rates:

- Followers loved the chance to enter a #giveaway, so put that swag to work.
- Links are the easiest and most frequently queued post type for media brands, but visual posts like photos and videos performed way better.

Media Posts per Week

- Facebook Posts per Week: 87.15
- Instagram Posts per Week: 8.12
- Twitter Tweets per Week: 75.89

Engagement Rates

- Facebook Engagement Rate / Post: 0.051%
- Instagram Engagement Rate / Post: 0.635%
- Twitter Engagement Rate / Tweet: 0.011%

#Giveaway posts were a hit for Media brands this year, as was anything having to do with sports.
Once again, Media brands heavily favored link tweets, but might want to invest more energy in video tweets, which grabbed more than twice the engagement rates.
You might be thinking #bts meant “behind the scenes” of making the news, but the hashtag that dominated Twitter for Media brands was all about Korean boy band BTS.

Nonprofits
Nonprofits Rocking It Across the Board

Nonprofits saw above-median engagement rates across all social channels this year and posted about twice the median frequency on Facebook and Twitter.

Suggestions for Nonprofits:
- Don’t be afraid to play with posting frequency to try to replicate these stellar engagement rates with fewer posts.
- Photos really helped Nonprofits tell their stories this year, so this is a good post type to focus on in the year ahead (along with its cousin, carousels).
Nonprofits earned nearly twice the median engagement on every channel this year, and were especially prolific on Facebook and Twitter.
Photos helped Nonprofits soar on Facebook this year and were posted about twice as frequently as the next most engaging post type.
Carousels and photos performed much better for Nonprofits on Instagram than videos. Nonprofits like Immigration Equality made great use of carousels to educate followers using the extra real estate from multiple views.

Overview

Sports Teams Go for the Gold

Sports Teams saw top engagement rates on Facebook and Twitter and were runners-up on Instagram. Pretty impressive, especially since high posting frequency meant lots of chances to engage followers.

Some ways to improve engagement rates even more:

- Posting early and often is working, so keep it up.
- Hashtags about sports events like #Euro2020 and #Tokyo2020 helped fans find what they were looking for.
